To Whom It May Concern:

I am interested in serving on the Historic District Commission. I am a new homeowner in Newtown living in a historic home built in 1869 and I am very much interested in preserving the character of the historic districts in Salisbury. I am a professor in the Art Department at Salisbury University where I have taught primarily drawing and painting classes for the past 11 years. As an art professor I familiar with the principles and history of design. In addition to knowing design I also have taught Art Appreciation so I have some knowledge of architectural styles associated with different periods of art history. In addition to being an art professor I also have a background as a custom cabinetmaker that has given me an appreciation for woodworking and craftsmanship.

I moved to Newtown last August because I fell in love with the historic neighborhoods in Salisbury and I would like to help preserve the historic districts in our city by serving on the Historic District Commission

Yours truly,

Edward Brown
