Salisbury Police promote 14 of their personnel into leadership positions.

On behalf of the Salisbury Police Department and the City of Salisbury, Chief David Meienschein is proud to promote 14 department personnel into leadership positions that recently became vacant due to retirements. The officers being promoted have displayed a variety of qualities in their previous positions and each participated in a promotional process which, at each level, included a written test and an oral interview that consisted of a panel of law enforcement leaders from the region. Each member being promoted was evaluated by their supervision and were ultimately selected based on their qualifications and previous work performance.

The Salisbury Police Department is proud of the newly promoted leaders and the members of our community should look forward to further collaboration and commitment from the members of their police department.

“I am honored to announce the promotion of 14 officers within the ranks of the police department. All of these promotions came about as the result of a competitive promotional process and were selected from established eligibility lists within each grade. Combined, these leaders have 233 years of dedicated law enforcement experience. It is always a pleasure to acknowledge the hard work and dedication for those police officers who aspire to assume leadership roles in this challenging time. I look forward to working with these officers, leading the police department into our next chapter together.”- Chief Meienschein.
