

City Announces New Police Chief

Following a national search to fill the position, the City of Salisbury is proud to announce the hiring of David Meienschein as the City's Police Chief. A 36-year veteran of the Salisbury Police Department, Meienschein has served in numerous capacities over his career including 12 years as Assistant Chief of Police and the last two months as Acting Chief.

"It is my honor to have served the citizens of Salisbury as a career officer and look forward to the future in my new role as Chief of Police," said Meienschein.

"Growing up in Salisbury, I have a vested interest in this community and will dedicate myself to leading the department by focusing on employee wellness, community collaboration, combating crime and helping our citizens feel safe."

A colorful promotional poster for '3rd Friday Super Hero Edition' in Downtown Salisbury, Maryland. The poster features a superhero character in a blue and red suit with a yellow 'S' on his chest. Text on the poster includes: 'DOWNTOWN SBY 5PM - 8PM', '$0 Always Free, Always Fun', 'FRIDAY OCTOBER 20TH', 'DOWNTOWN SALISBURY MARYLAND', '3rd Friday', 'SUPER HERO EDITION', 'COSTUMES ENCOURAGED', 'SHOP LOCAL ARTISTS', and 'LIVE MUSIC WITH MBD BAND'. There is also a small logo that says 'APPROVED BY THE COMIC FANS' and a website URL 'WWW.SUPERHEROFRIDAY.COM'.

A Red Hot Green Team!

The Salisbury Green Team has recently achieved a significant milestone by creating an engaging recycling game for residents, a key component of their extensive efforts to promote sustainability during the Folk Festival. Spearheaded by the dedicated advocacy and leadership of Sarah Surak and Jennifer Feinauer from Salisbury University, the Green Team went above and beyond to ensure the festival's environmental impact was minimized. They tirelessly picked up litter, manned recycling receptacles, provided valuable recycling education to festivalgoers, and certified vendors committed to sustainable practices. Looking ahead, the Green Team is set to convene on Wednesday, October 4th, at 5:30 pm in Schumaker Park, where they will explore further collaborations with BPAC and the distribution of reusable bags to underserved residents, further solidifying their commitment to a greener, more sustainable community.

Salisbury's Public Art Master Plan Unveiling and Discussion

Members of the local arts community and others with an interest in public art are invited to attend a Salisbury Public Art Master Plan Unveiling and Discussion on Wednesday, Oct. 4.

The session will feature public art consultant Todd Bressi, who created Salisbury's Public Art Master Plan with input from City of Salisbury staff and the local community. It will be held at the City of Salisbury Council Chambers, located in the Salisbury Headquarters at 115 S. Division St., from 5-7 p.m.

Attendees can learn how to get involved in bringing public art to Salisbury as an artist, community member or as a member of the new Public Art Committee. Due to space limitations, the first 75 people to arrive are welcome to attend.
